

Create Your Own Ork Racer!

When the Great Rift first ripped itself across the sky, it spat out an armada of ramshackle Ork craft that crash-landed in the desert wastes of Vigilus. These were quickly re-used by enterprising Meks and soon hordes of cobbled-together vehicles of all shapes and sizes ventured forth to race the length and breadth of the planet.

Orks are renowned for being both brutal and kunnin', and their races put both those qualities to the test. If an Ork can win just by going really, really fast, that's great – but if they can take their opponents out with big guns or sneaky traps, that's even better!

Use your Mek skills to create your own Ork racer. Think about adding custom components to make it even sneakier and full of kunnin' traps!

1. Select the parts you'd like to use to make your buggy and colour them in.
2. When you are happy with your colour scheme, carefully cut them out. Ask an adult before you use scissors.
3. Arrange the parts below and once you are happy with how your buggy looks, glue down the pieces.

